In my professional opinion, Cherry Lake Tree Farms sets one of the highest standards in the horticultural industry as a premium grower of quality plant materials in the State of Florida. They have consistently exceeded my expectations for service, quality, and their ability to provide quality material to our clients on our large scale resort and master planned community projects. They are experts in providing and/or brokering a wide variety of plant materials as well as crafting programs for long term growing to meet specific needs over an extended period of time.

Over the years they have also been very active as partners in conducting continuing education programs and sponsor professional events for the Landscape Architectural profession. This is entirely voluntary and has greatly helped many professionals to find solutions to ongoing plant issues, learn new trends and receive training for licensure re-certification. They have also been instrumental in researching and bringing new cultivars to the market that has broadened the plant palette and created new ways to enhance the natural and man-made environment.

They are above all consummate professionals that have earned my endorsement and the respect of our clients for their professionalism, honesty and reputation built on mutual trust and excellent service.
